OLD LANDMARK IS NOW "A HAS-BEEN"

On the left the building burned.

This broke out yesterday morning a little after 2 o'clock in the building occupied by George Mann, who runs a coffee house and pool room, with the result that the place was entirely destroyed. The proprietor of the place told The Sun yesterday that he could shed no light on the origin of the fire and that before leaving for his room the previous evening everything was safe and he attributed the blaze to defective wiring. The loss is about three thousand dollars on building and contents and the place was repaired for ten thousand.

The fire must not forget to mention the quick and effective work of the local fire ladders. They were promptly on the scene and rendered prompt service in preventing the spread of the flames. H. B. Stinson comes in for special mention for his prompt work. The other firemen on the scene were Chief Morgan King, Nick Bernhardt, Lem Hinkle, Albert Forshey and Hal McManis.

The destroyed building is the former home of the Advocate newspaper. The fire must not forget to mention the quick and effective work of the local fire ladders. They were promptly on the scene and rendered prompt service in preventing the spread of the flames. H. B. Stinson comes in for special mention for his prompt work. The other firemen on the scene were Chief Morgan King, Nick Bernhardt, Lem Hinkle, Albert Forshey and Hal McManis.

Robert McKune of McKune Forwarding company states that there is no trouble at this time—but has there been during the winter—in freighters getting over the road by way of Price to Myton and other Utah Basin points. McKune Forwarding company is doing an excellent business with its shippers and others of that section.

Salt Lake City grain and flour dealers met Thursday and raised the price of flour to $2.50 for high patent, $2.30 for straight grade, and $2.70 for family flour. For the retail figures, twenty to twenty-five cents may be added. Cakes were raised from $1.00 to $1.10, with $1.30 for best, well-baked wheat was raised from $1.35 to $1.50 per hundredweight. When flour dealers cough, then listen to the country fellows suffer.

Joseph Goughgass, prominent merchandiser who died at Las Angeles, Cal., last Friday morning was one of the board of directors of the Independent Coal and Coke company with mines at Kenilworth. His home was in Salt Lake City, where he had resided for the past twenty-five years. Recently attacked by pneumonia, he was taken by his physician to the California city in hopes of saving his life. Deceased had done his share—and more, too—in helping to build up Utah.

Winifred Callahan, administratrix of the estate of Patrick W. Callahan, deceased, is suing the Denver and Rio Grande Railway company in the Third District court at Salt Lake City for fifty thousand dollars for the death of her son, August 19, 1913. Callahan was a section foreman on the Southern Utah and the Castle Valley railroads and at the time of his death these lines were operated by the defendant corporation. The plaintiff is well known in Price as was also the deceased.

The rails of the Utah railroad over Baxter Pass have been under something like sixteen feet of snow for the past two weeks and there has been a week at a time when it was impossible to get a train through. In the meantime the wagon road out of Price has not been impassable to freighters and from the reservation country the entire winter. Considerable trouble is being experienced in getting mail and passengers through from Helper by the Willow Creek route.

Have you noticed the color of the paper used by most of the city dairies of late? Instead of being white it has a yellow tinge. This is due to the scarcity of dye materials and is what we are all coming to in the near future. Colored printing paper used in the average printing office for bill work and so forth is getting scarcer every day and it is only a question of time when it cannot be obtained at all. The colors at present are decidedly dim and it looks as though the printer was cutting down on expenses and getting an inferior grade of paper. Such is not the case, however, as the poorly colored stock of today costs the printer more than the quality colors of yesterday.

Miss Gladys Neils writes her parents at Price, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Neils, from West Haverthia that herself and two friends were one day the last week completely snowed in, as it were. Miss Neils and the Misses Eliza Hayes and Jennie Larson are teachers at the coal camp and keep house. On the morning referred to they awoke to find that the "beautiful" was about seven feet deep at the back door of the company cottage they occupy, and that the "spare-room" floor was covered with no less than two feet of snow, which had drifted in during the night. With shovels and other implements brought into requisition they dug their way out the front door. They made it in time to "take up" school at the regular hour.

Miss Maud Wilson and Roy Willette were married at Salt Lake City Wednesday evening last, which came as a great surprise to the many friends of these young people at Price. The bride is the daughter of McClure Wilson of this city, while the groom until a short time ago held a responsible position with Wells-Fargo express at Price. From Salt Lake City bride and groom are en route to Idaho Falls, Id., with the sister of Mrs. Willette—Mrs. Clara Carothers—after which the newweds are going to Butte, Mont., and thence on to California, where they are to make their home. Miss Wilson was practically reared in Price and the best wishes of The Sun, as well as hundreds of friends, go with her to the home to be established in the Golden State.

Starvation threatens deer

Wild game in Summit County Pass—In Through Great Hardships.

Deer and other big game in Summit county are being driven from the mountains into the foothills because of the heavy snowstorms and William Archibald, game warden for the county, has ordered that several tons of hay be taken to the foothill ranges that they may have sufficient food. At Echo there are two herds of deer. In one herd there are thirty-seven seen, browsing on the small trees which are not entirely covered by the heavy snow and in the other herd there are more than a hundred head. There is still grazing on the ridges for the animals, where the high winds have swept the hills free of snow, but food is scant.

Quail and sagehens have been driven either into farmyards or to the ridges as the snow in the valley and in the foothills has completely covered all food supplies. The farmers in the valleys are caring for the quail and sagehens by scattering wheat for them. In a number of instances the quail and sagehens have been so in need of food that they have fed with the chickens. Farmers who keep hogs find there are large flocks of quail around the pig sties.

The game warden states that there are three deputy wardens in the field who are carrying food supplies to the wild game in the mountains. He declared yesterday that another heavy snow without wind would cover up the ridges and deer and other game will be threatened with starvation.

Reports from other counties are to the effect that the ridges contain a "single supply of food for wild animals, but that small game is suffering."

PROGRAM FROM WORKS OF JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY

On Sunday evening, next, the people of Price will have an opportunity to spend a pleasant hour or two with James Whitcomb Riley, the famous bard of Indiana. The Young Ladies' and Young Men's Mutual Improvement associations have been working on the program for several weeks and it will be presented at the tabernacle, beginning at 7 o'clock sharp. Here is the program:

Invocation.

"Dry Your Eyes," selected by request—High School Choir.

"When the Folks is Gone"—Agnes MacLennan.

"An Old Sweetheart of Mine"—Emma Johnson.

The Life and Works of James Whitcomb Riley. "My Philosophy," "Tale of Early Days" and "Nothing to See, My Daughter"—D. B. Fleener.

"When the Frost Is on the Pumpkin"—High School Choir.

"Dear to Me"—"Appearance"—Ruth Whitman.

"The Last Kiss"—La Belle Whitman.

"A Boy's Mother"—Thora Hinch.

"The Raggedy Man"—Ruth Whitman.

"There Little Girl, Don't Cry"—Double Mixed Quartet.

There will be no charge of admission for this splendid program and the public is cordially invited.

L. Lowenstein is getting along quite well at Salt Lake City this (Friday) morning. His many friends at Price wish him well.

Miss Laura Horsley is today (Friday) afternoon sitting up and her father says is undoubtedly on the road to recovery.

We Don't Want to Slight ...the Girls...

Yours would appreciate a Bank Account. Girls and women usually appreciate the value of thrift more than boys and men do and then—it's worth while to start the girl right in financial matters. Her natural heritage is marriage, and the making and keeping up of a home. Now is the time for her to learn the value and uses of money—the value of systematic saving and to gain some knowledge of good business habits. If she learns these things now she will be better able to take up the problems of life when she takes charge of a home of her own. Four per cent on savings accounts, compounded semi-annually.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Choir Working On New Anthem—Other News of Interest.

Last week in chapel we were entertained by Floyd A. Ivie, who has spent several years in Japan studying the ways and customs of the people. He gave a very interesting talk on the progress of the Japanese schools.

The choir is working on the new national anthem, "America, So Fair, So Free."

In order that we may know the musical ability of the students who are taking choir, Professor Dargener has arranged for every student to have a chance of chapel one day. We are expecting some good musical numbers.

Thursday the girls were given an interesting and beneficial talk by Mrs. J. G. Gubler, while Dr. R. E. Cloward addressed the boys.

Last Saturday, while the juniors were working on the decorations for the prom, they were surprised by the seniors with the refreshments for the evening. The seniors were prepared for work and much was accomplished that evening.

DO YOU FIND FAULT WITH EVERYBODY?

An irritable, fault finding disposition is often due to a disordered stomach. A man with good digestion is nearly always good natured. A great many have been permanently benefited by Chamberlain's Tablets after years of suffering. These tablets strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. Obtainable everywhere.
